

What We Must Do Now To Save Reproductive Freedom

Reproductive freedom, the right to make personal decisions about one's own body and reproductive health, has always been a cornerstone of progress and gender equality. It is the belief that every individual should have the choice and ability to control their own reproductive lives.

The Threats to Reproductive Freedom

Unfortunately, recent developments have posed significant threats to reproductive freedom around the world. In various regions, laws have been passed or proposed that seek to limit access to abortion, contraception, and other reproductive health services. These restrictions directly infringe upon a person's right to make decisions about their own body, health, and future.

Anti-choice rhetoric and misinformation campaigns have been on the rise, attempting to control and stigmatize reproductive choices. Such tactics not only perpetuate harmful societal narratives but also create a hostile environment for those seeking reproductive healthcare. Young people, especially, are caught in the crossfire and face challenges when it comes to accessing comprehensive sexual education and affordable contraception.

Taking Action Today

The urgency to protect and preserve reproductive freedom cannot be overstated. It is essential that individuals and communities come together to fight for the rights and choices of all individuals, regardless of their gender, socioeconomic status, or geographic location. Here are some crucial steps we must take:

1. Raise Awareness

Education is a powerful tool in challenging misconceptions and promoting reproductive freedom. Share factual information about reproductive health through social media, community events, and conversations with your friends and family. Support organizations that provide accurate information and comprehensive sexual education.

2. Engage in Advocacy

Join local and national advocacy groups that work towards protecting reproductive freedom. Engage in grassroots organizing, attend rallies and demonstrations, and reach out to elected officials to voice your concerns. Supporting pro-choice candidates and initiatives can also contribute to positive change.

3. Support Accessible Healthcare Services

Women, trans men, and gender non-conforming individuals should have access to safe and affordable reproductive healthcare services. Support organizations that offer reproductive health services, such as Planned Parenthood, or donate to local clinics. Advocate for legislation that protects and expands access to these crucial services.

4. Counter Misinformation

Misinformation spreads rapidly, so it's crucial to combat it with facts and evidence. Engage in respectful conversations with those who hold misconceptions about reproductive freedom. Point them towards reputable sources and share personal stories that highlight the importance of reproductive choice.

5. Fight for Comprehensive Policies

Advocate for policies that protect and expand reproductive rights. This includes supporting bills that ensure comprehensive sex education in schools, equitable access to contraception, paid parental leave, and workplace accommodations for pregnant individuals. Stay informed about legislative developments and actively engage with your representatives.

Reproductive freedom is under threat, but by taking action now, we can preserve and expand the rights and choices of all individuals. From raising awareness and engaging in advocacy to supporting accessible healthcare services and countering misinformation, we have the power to shape a future where reproductive freedom is upheld and respected. Together, we can ensure that every person has the autonomy and agency to make decisions about their own bodies and lives.

This definitive account of the battle for reproductive freedom includes a bold new strategy to safeguard our rights, from two lawyers at the forefront of the movement.

Reproductive freedom has never been in more dire straits. Roe v. Wade protected abortion rights and Planned Parenthood v. Casey unexpectedly preserved them. Yet in the following decades these rights have been gutted by restrictive state legislation, the appointment of hundreds of anti-abortion judges, and violence against abortion providers. Today, the ultra-conservative majority at the Supreme Court has activists, medical providers, and everyday Americans worry that we are about to lose our most fundamental reproductive protections.

When Roe is toppled, abortion may quickly become a criminal offense in nearly one-third of the United States. At least six states have enacted bans on abortion as early as six weeks of pregnancy—before many women are even aware they are pregnant. Today, 89% of U.S. counties do not have a single abortion provider, in part due to escalating violence and intimidation aimed at disrupting services. We should all be free to make these personal and private decisions that affect our lives and wellbeing without government interference or bias, but we can no longer depend on Roe v. Wade and the federal courts to preserve our liberties.

Legal titans Kathryn Kolbert and Julie F. Kay share the story of one of the most divisive issues in American politics through behind-the-scenes personal narratives of stunning losses, hard-earned victories, and moving accounts of women and health care providers at the heart of nearly five decades of legal battles. At this make-or-break moment for legal abortion in the United States, Kolbert and Kay propose audacious new strategies inspired by medical advances, state-level protections, human rights models, and activists across the globe whose courage and determination are making a difference.

No more banging our heads against the Court's marble walls. It is time for a new direction.
